

IVELIOS (INTERMEDIATE POWER)

The guidance, the lone walker, the dream walker, the wise sword

Intermediate deity

Home plane: region of dreams (see manual of the planes)

Alignment: neutral good

Portfolio: Honorable combat, Mystical Insight (wisdom), Dreams, destiny & hope

Worshippers: good and neutral mortals, Usually fighters, nobles, wise men or just any good being who feels alone and in despair

Cleric alignments: any good

Domains: Dream, war, oracle, Nobility, Destiny, protection, knowledge, good & Renewal

Favored weapons: mercurial greatsword

His titles include the guidance, the lone walker, the dream walker or the wise sword; he appears as a male figure of grand beauty with a tan skin color, dressed in a white glowing cloak or wearing a simple yet elegant chain mail and armed with two swords, has a long dark hair and deep purple eyes which are usually close for they cause strange feelings in those who look upon them and always bearing a serene unchanging expression... Ivelios is a deity that stands as a giver of hope and wisdom.

This god has made his way towards his status by force and even when he is a god of good (without question) some of the other gods look upon him as something that must not be, he leads a religion similar to the Buddhism, relaxed yet at the same time with a degree of martial prowess and perfection of self that astounds those who see him. Ivelios would certainly be an oriental type god, his portfolio includes: HONOR, TRUTH, MYSTICAL INSIGHT (WISDOM), DREAMS, FATE, LOST CAUSES & HOPE. Invoked in times of dire need for advice, or just a little "push," and growing a day younger when so; he is an intermediate power but not part of any pantheon, Ivelios has made friends on several other gods such as lanthander, Mystra, oghma and seleune however you may picture him as a somewhat hidden deity not very known of, so is to think that he is an unique and powerful being with relations with the deities, but not a deity in the full sense of the word and there are those deities that dislike his presence but still they admit the power that this guy has.

Among the gods he is known as a capable combatant, one who's martial prowess matches his wisdom and one who should be taken into account since this being brings a warning of the great dangers that lie beyond this thing we call reality... indeed all beings who know this deity, and those who see the power he wields, leave with a great feeling of dread since this deity has taken to himself the task of showing anyone (anyone worthy of this knowledge) the things that exist beyond: the plane of dreams, the temporal energy plane, the far realm... all places where things more powerful than even the deities exist and those things just might come here and visit you!

This is what is known to those creatures who know about those planes and things: Ivelios is one of the few who has any contact with the "uber deities", gods with a divine rank greater than 20 and unknown by almost anyone, sometimes he delivers messages from them, but mostly he remains as a neutral character in regard to them. Ivelios reveals the existence of a plan that the uber-deities are now putting into action; however who they are and what are they planning is not certain.

DOGMA: Ivelios doesn't promote an a special agenda (apparently) instead he rules over oracles, tacticians and wise men proclaiming the importance of wise decisions, hope and the courage to make those things even against overwhelming odds, so he instills others the strive to be better, stronger and wiser; watching over all of his believers when in need. Ivelios exhorts his followers to do good, to be reflexive and be in peace yet ready to rally against dishonor, against evil and against ignorance. His favored weapon is the mercurial greatsword.